Aug. 4. d

From the London Universal Magazine.

THE GLEANER.

"I have thoughts of publishing a daily paper, which shall comprehend in it all the most remarkable occurrences that life with, in ten miles of London, or in other words, within the verge of the penny-post."

SPECTATOR.

To the Author of the Gleaner.

SIR,

I HAVE long been of opinion, which nevertheless I would wish to express very humbly, that mankind are not so just in their gratitude for public services as they ought to be, and that some of those persons whom we have tho't proper to hail public benefactors, are so in a very confined sense, while others, who really deserve that character, are either overlooked altogether, or honoured with a very small share of our approbation. But I apprehend, that if our gratitude, was bestowed on those who confer upon upon us the blessings which we most desire, the case would be otherwise, and in particular, I humbly conceive that of all men living we should be most anxious to rank the Editors of newspapers among the greatest benefactors or the human race. For what is it that they supply? News. And what is it that men ask for in the morning? News! At noon? News! In the evening? News? To the last minute of the night? News! Nay, do we not hear men, who accidentally meet on their way home to bed, ask eagerly for news, as they did the moment they entered the breakfast room, and took up that greatest of all luxuries, a wet newspaper.

Now, if those are to be reckoned the greatest benefactors, who confer the greatest number of favours upon the greatest number of applicants, surely the Editors of newspapers ought to be held in the highest esteem, and I hope when they see this justice done in their merits, they will bestow at least half a column of compliments upon me and you, Mr. Gleaner, and upon the Universal Magazine, the Editor of which can admit the praise of rivals without indignation. Should there be any, in whose minds there yet lurks a doubt of what I have said, or who may think that there are men whose works administer more to the necessities of their fellow creatures than the aforesaid Editors, I will hang the issue of the question upon this single point.

I will suppose, and entreat those persons to suppose with me, what the consequence would be, if the circulation of news were to be stop for only a week—A week! did I say—why that is an age—for a single day, and then let us see what substitutes the ingenuity of man would invent. But a substitute for news! O! the thing is impossible; the very notion of it an absurdity, and what is more, an absurdity, which I believe never entered into the head of man.

No.—Mr. Gleaner; there are cures, and alleviations for all calamities incident to mankind, except this. Wars, famine, pestilence, earthquakes, inundations, storms and fires, sickness, lameness, blindness, are all capable of mitigation, and what is very important for my argument, are all partial evils, compared to that dreadful stagnation which would be occasioned in the minds of men by the circulation of news being obstructed, I have often amused, (I mean terrified) myself by supposing such a case, as some ingenious writers have amused their readers by terrifying them with stories of ghosts and murders, haunted castles, and such like objects of horror. I repeat it, sir, that the evils above enumerated are partial; a fire may, for instance, rage in one street or district and do great damage, but what is that to the town in general? Whereas, put a stop to newspapers for a day, and what would become of half the time and all the converfation of the whole inhabitants of the metropolis.

In confidering and properly adjusting the merits of a newspaper editor, as a public benefactor, there is another refpect in which he ftands eminently diftinguifhed.—Other works that iflue from the prefs are intended for certain refpective claffes of readers; but a newspaper is equally calculated for all defcriptions. Whether a man wants bodily or mental aid, this is the place to apply. "If," fays Addifon, "a man has pains in his head, colics in his bowels, or fports in his clothes, he may here meet with proper cures and remedies. If a man would recover a wife, or a horfe that is ftolen or ftayed; if he wants new fermons, elecfuaries, affes milk, or any thing elfe, either for his body or mind, this is the place to look for them in."—Or, as my favorite poet fays, we may in newspapers find

*"Refes for the cheeks,
And lilies for the brows of faded age,
Teeth for the toothlefs, ringlets for the bald, Heav'n, earth and ocean plundered of their fweets,
Nectarous effences, Olympian dews,
Sermons, and city feoffs, and fav'rite airs,
Ethereal journies, submarine exploits,
And Katterfelio, with his hair on end
At his own wonders, wond'ring for his bread."*

Advertisements are, in fact, news, and partake of all the charafteriftics of the other paragraphs. Here we learn the fad viciffitudes of families and eftates, obligingly communicated by the mafters of the hammer. Here likewife we difcover what are the prevailing wants, whether fmg places, fmart footmen, maids of all work, or a fum of money upon good fecurity. But without confidering thefe as of the first requifition in point of news, if we pafs on to thofe columns which more particularly record the actions of the bufy world, what an infinite variety here is! What ample gratification for taftes of every defcription! Whether we wifh to penetrate thro' the columns of a London Gazette, or wander through the gloom and mazes of a Hamburg mail; whether we wifh to trace the changes that have taken place in form of a government, or of a gown, whether we examine the meafures of a foreign court or a foreign lace; whether we wifh to know who have fallen in battle or in reputation; who have retreated from the enemy, or eloped from their parents; whether we are defirous of knowing what paffes in Palace-yard, or in Bond-ftreet; at the minifter's levee, or the milliner's fhop; we fhall find all thefe, and a ftill greater variety in thofe diurnal vehicles of information.

*"This folio of four pages, happy work!
Which not even critics criticife; that holds
Inquifitive attention, rufible I read, Feft bound in chains of fentence, rubick the fair,
Though eloquent themfelves, yet fear to break;*

*What is it but a man of bufy life,
Its flutuations and its wift concerns?"*

Having faid fo much, Mr. Gleaner, both in profe and verfe, in favour of newspapers, and perhaps more than has ever been advanced at one time on that fide of the queftion, I muft now take the liberty to point out where they appear to fome perfons to be defective, and propofe a remedy.

It has been fuggelted to me, that in the narration of events, the newspapers lean too much towards thofe which refpect kings and courts, nations and governments, things which many people do not well underftand, and others care little about; and alfo that in recording the more familiar anecdotes of family hiftory, they confine themfelves principally to perfons of high rank and diftinction, in whole affairs it is impoffible we can be fo much interefted as in thofe of men and women more near our own level.

Now the remedy to all this, I humbly conceive, lies in the motto which I have chofen for this letter, and which therefore you will be fo good as prefix, that I may not have the trouble of repeating it again. The worthy gentleman who propofed it, gives a few fpecimens, which I fhall firft tranfcribe, and then add others of my own, which I hope will explain the nature and utility of a newspaper thus improved, beyond all contradiction.

By our laft advices from Knightbridge, we hear that a horfe was clapped into the pound on the 3d inft. and that he was not releafed when the letters came away.

We are informed from Pancras, that a dozen weddings were lately celebrated in the mother church of that place; but are referred to their next letters for the names of the parties concerned.

Letters from Brumpton, advife, that the widow Blight had received feveral vifits from John Mildew, which affords great manner of fpeculation in thofe parts.

By a fifherman who lately touched at Hammerfmith, there is advice from Putney, that a certain perfon well known in that place, is like to lofe his election for churchwarden; but this being boat news, we cannot give entire credit to it.

They advife from Fulham, that things remained there in the fame ftate they were. They had intelligence, juft as the letters came away, of a tub of excellent ale, juft fet abroach at Parfon's-green; but this wanted confirmation.

There are all the fpecimens afforded by the ingenious gentleman to whom I am indebted for the firft hint of a newspaper on this improved plan.

It is evident that thefe, though very ingenious, are not quite fo minute in point of information, as the curiofity of the prefent days require, and therefore in what I am about to offer, I have ventured to come to a more clofe imitation of modern newfpapers, efpecially in the article of what they call Bon Ton, or fashionable intelligence.

It is with great concern we inform the public, that Mr. Simon Softly, an eminent cock-cutter, lies dangerously ill of the gout, at his country feat, near Gray's Inn lane.

A battle was fought yefterday, in Five farthing fields, between a chimney-fweeper, and an old clothes man of fome diftinction, which terminated in favor of the latter. There were feveral amateurs of the firft rank prefent, as lord —, Col. —, the Hon. Mr. —.

Yefterday, as Mr. George Conondrum, of Moorgate, was converfing with fome friends in his ufual way, he fell into a greivous miftake, and was extricated with great difficulty.

Wednesday evening, the following melancholy accident happened. As Mr. Thomas Belch, of Gun-Dock, was returning home from the tavern, he was fuddenly attacked by two bowls of rack punch, which deprived him of his fenfes and recollection. He left a bufinefs and two apprentices to regret his lofs.

Advices from Lime-Houfe, mention that a violent quarrel broke out between Mr. and Mrs. Tarpaulin, which was got under when the poft came away.

The overfeer of St. Bartholomew's parifh, came to town laft evening. He immediately went to the cat and fiddle, and was waited upon by the landlord. We hope to lay before our readers in a few days the real object of his journey to Illeworth.

An intelligent correspondent informs us that the clerk of St. Johns has given orders for a new bible and prayer book for the church, but in rough calf, and not in morocco, as afferted in an evening paper.

George Wigley, Efq. we are forry to find, leaves the fuff fhop, in Barbican, the air not agreeing with his health.

After this fpecimen, Mr. Gleaner, I fhould perhaps be blamed for leaving my work half finifhed, if I omitted propofing fome alterations, or novelties in the way of advertisements. I fhall therefore fubjoin a few fpecimens of thefe, and but a few, as you probably may think I have nearly exceeded the reasonable bounds of one letter.

Woffball & Company refpectfully inform the public, that they have juft imported a large quantity of the true, genuine, celeftial wafh, for the face and neck. It converts the greateft ugliness into the greateft beauty and not only removes all the freckles, but fmoother the face, removes fquinting, and the pernicious effects of a wry nofe, as can be attelted by many ladies of diftinction. Price in bottles, one guinea each, ftamp included.

Bathing—Bathing being fo healthy and ufeful, at this feafon of the year particularly, Mefrs. Irish and Company beg leave to recommend their yard fquare towels, which have been fo long approved by the public, as much fmoother, and better for wiping the body than any other. May be had in any quantity fit for immediate ufe.

Having enlarged fo much, Mr. Gleaner, on the plan of this paper, I take my leave, by recommending it to the notice of your readers, and am, your humble fervant,
OLIVER QUIDNUNC.

TELEGRAPHICAL DISPATCH.

6 Thermidor, 25 July.

The principal commiffary of marine at St. Malo, to the minifter of marine.

The Englifh frigate, the Jaton, of 40 guns, captain Murry, has run a-ground before the harbour of St. Malo. In the batteries of this fine fhip were found 26 fixteen-pounders, and 12 thirty-two. She was built feventeen months ago.

(Signed) CHAPPE.

BRUSSELS, July 23.

The brother of the Ex-Director Carnot who is himfelf infpector-general of engineers, is employed in infpecting the coaft of Flanders. He has been to Bruges, Oitend, Blankenberg, and Nieupoort.

CALAIS, July 24

Our flotilla of gun-boats and flat-bottomed boats have not yet been able to fail with fafety. The Englifh blockade us day and night. They form an uninterrupted chain along our coasts half a league off. They have befides adopted the precaution to ftation armed fhips behind all the capes which jut into the fea. They occupy all our harbours, and, as long as the fummer lafts, it will be difficult to communicate from port to port.

LIEGE, July 23.

The Gazette of this town contains the following extract of a letter from Paris, dated July 17.

"Yefterday, at 11 o'clock in the morning, the religious Concordat was confumated, and figned, on the part of the chief conful, by Jofeph Buonaparte, the counfellor of ftate, Cretier, and Aube Barnier; and on the part of the pope, by Cardinal Gonfalvi, and the archbifhop of Corinth, Spina."

This news is certain; it is faid even that things are arranged in a manner to quiet all confciences.

HAGUE, July 20.

Letters from Hamburg fay, that his Pruffian majesty has acceded to the convention concluded between Ruffia and Great-Britain.

LONDON, July 28.

From the Paris papers, which arrived yefterday, we extract an account of the return of Gantheaume to France, after having landed his troops in Egypt. The filence of the Moniteur upon the fubject was fuppofed by fome to be a fufficient proof of the falfehood of that account. But it muft be recollected that upon many other articles of intelligence, the French official paper has been equally filent. It never, we believe, faid one word of Gantheaume's having put into Toulon, for reinforcements, nor of his having failed from thence; but it is certain that Gantheaume has actually returned to France. A letter was received at the admiralty yefterday from capt. Hallowell, of the Swiftfure, dated from the Bay of Frejus, near Toulon, the 7th inft. The letter gives an account of the capture of the Swiftfure, which was taken near Derna.

The fact of Gantheaume's return to France is thus placed beyond all doubt: as little can it be doubted that he returned after having landed troops in Egypt. The only point upon which we have no information is the place where he landed, and the amount of the force. The capture of the Swiftfure near Derna, would induce a belief that the landing took place at Derna. For fome time paft indeed it has been faid that that was the fpot. But whoever looks at the map will fee that Derna is a vaft diftance from Alexandria; that the troops would have to travel burning fands and deferts, that their march muft neceffarily be flow. There are many places between Derna and Aboukir where Gantheaume could land them. A very intelligent writer in a morning paper fuppofes that Duraffo was the fpot. The fuppofition is a very reasonable one. Duraffo is about twenty leagues to the weft of Alexandria, and it will be recollected that the French papers faid that the troops were landed within 20 leagues of Alexandria. If Gantheaume did debark them at Duraffo, he would probably, on his return to France, keep along the coaft as far as Derna, near which the Swiftfure was taken. It is fufficiently clear that both that fhip and the Bristol corvette were taken on his homeward bound paffage.

Another point upon which we have no accurate information, is the amount of the troops landed.—Some of the French papers make their number 7000: But it is fcarcely poffible that fo many troops could be conveyed in four fail of the line and a frigate. It is probable that the number did not exceed, if even it amounted to 5000.

Upon the confequences likely to refult from fuch a reinforcement having joined Menon, we fhall not at prefent exprefs any opinion.

Accounts from France inform us that the Chief Conful has ratified the treaty with Portugal. We were taught to believe that he would not ratify it. Has he been induced to do it by the activity which Spain has evinced in coming to the affiftance of admiral Lincois—by his wifh not to do any thing that might dimini fh the ardour and check the exertions of his ally? [Courier.]

The court of Copenhagen has acceded to the convention figned at St. Petersburg on the 17th of June.

According to the laft accounts from Copenhagen, count Loewendahl, fon to the Danifh ambaffador in Ruffia, is immediately to proceed to St. Petersburg, with an official notification of the acceffion of Denmark to the Convention concluded there on the 17th ult. between Lord St. Helens and count Panio. Sweden having already fignified its formal acceffion, the differences between Great-Britain and the Northern Powers are thus moft happily brought to a final adjustment.

On the 18th inft. arrived at Hamburg, from Berlin, the French General Macdo. ald, with the Ex-count de Segut, his fecretary, and four ajutants, on his way to Copenhagen, where he is to refide as ambaffador. Should the propofals for a general peace, which have, it is moft confidently afferted, been lately fent from Paris to Peterfburgh, meet with the approbation of Alexander, Macdonald is to go to Peterfburgh in the character of Ordinary French Ambaffador.

The arref of 7 French emigrants at Bareuth took place at the exprefs requifition of Gen. Bournonville, the French minifter at Berlin. They are faid to have been implicated in the plot for deftroying the Firft Conful by means of the infernal machine.

Several conferences have lately been held at Vienna in the emperor's prefence, at which the Grand Duke of Tufcany always affifted. Their object is faid to be the indemnity of the Grand Duke, for which purpofe Buonaparte had fent a new projet to the Imperial Cabinet.

A private letter by the Hamburg mail yefterday, afferts, that Alexandria has been taken by ftorm; but we cannot give credit to the news. If it had been true, government would have had an expreis with it.

In a letter from Naples, of the 29th of June, it is ftated, that the fyftem of terror adopted feveral years ago in that unhappy country ftill fubfifts in all its original vigor. Though the French troops occupy a part of the country, fuch is the resentment of perfons connected with the government, that thofe who difcover the fmalleft degree of friendfhip for them are objects of the moft implacable vengeance.

July 31.

Letters from our fleet blockading Breft ftate, that the Breft fleet appears to be completely ready for fea, and that troops are embarked on board the fhips.

The enemy's veffels are remarkably flat-bottomed, and draw fo very little water as to be enabled to place themfelves under cover of their batteries, where it would be extremely dangerous for our boats to venture. To this circumftance muft be attributed the efcape of the flotilla from Calais into Boulogne on Tuefday.

The peculiar conftruction of the French gun-veffels enabling them to proceed along the coaft in fafety, as our cruifers cannot, in confequence of their great draught of water, bring their guns to bear with any decifive effect upon them, it is, we underftand, determined by the admiralty to difpatch a confiderable number of fmall craft, properly equipped and armed, to be ftationed off the oppofite coaft.

The military preparations along the Flemifh coaft are continued with undiminished activity. A corps of 1000 light cavalry, for fome feeret expedition has been lately felfected from the troops at Brussels; and Carnot, Inspector-General of Engineers, the brother to the Ex-Director, has inspected Bruges, Ostend, and Nieuport.

Memorials are daily presented to the Diet of Ratisbon on the part of the Princes and States who have suffered losses by the cession of the left bank of the Rhine. The last memorial received was that of the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel, who possessed in Sovereignty, before the Revolution, the country of Hanau-Leichtenberg, in Alsace. This prince estimates his loss at 12 districts, 7 towns, 4 boroughs, 142 villages, 104 farms and mills, 76,000 inhabitants, and 666,050 florins of annual revenue. He also claims an equivalent of 6,232,715 florins for the revenue, which he has not received for ten years, 3,793,596 florins for castles & effects lost during that time, and indemnities for the contributions, requisitions, Roman months, &c. which he has made in conformity to the conclusion of the Empire. Should the other Princes & States, whose possessions were formerly situated on the left bank of the Rhine, demand similar compensations, the whole Germanic Empire would not be able to satisfy them.

August 1.

The accounts brought by the Hamburgh mail, which arrived at a late hour last night, do not contain intelligence from Egypt of a date more recent than that of which we are already in possession by General Hutchinson's dispatches of the 1st of June. Letters from Constantinople of the 25th of that month, notice the distressed state to which the garrisons of Alexandria are reduced for want of provisions and water. We are concerned to find, that no junction had been then effected between the Grand Vizier and the Captain Pacha, and the siege of Cairo was consequently deferred. The defeat of the Republican troops in Egypt is attributed to the disagreements and contentions which prevailed among the French Generals, respecting the plan of the campaign. If it be true that that country is exposed to the ravages of the plague, this dreadful scourge may have probably prevented the vigorous operations of the British army.

The reports respecting Gantheaume's squadron, the arrival of a French and Spanish squadron in the neighbourhood of Sicily, and a naval engagement, said to have been fought in the Adriatic, are unworthy of credit.

It now appears that the accounts of an action in the Upper Palatinate between the Austrian and Bavarian troops were unfounded, and that the differences between the Emperor and the Elector of Bavaria are on the point of being brought to an amicable conclusion.

Our private correspondence notices the discontent of the Russian minister at Paris, in consequence of his ineffectual interference with the French government in favor of his Sardinian majesty; a circumstance that must materially tend to widen the breach between the Emperor Alexander and the first Consul.

There appears little doubt but that the King of Sardinia will finally take up his abode in that island, to which he is, with the slender remains of his court, to be conveyed by a British man of war.

Traveller.

We have received letters from Deal and Dover, which notice the accounts daily sent to those places by our cruisers and boats, of the continual activity which prevails along the enemy's coast. Lord Nelson has at present under his command in the Downs, a force composed of no less than sixty vessels of all descriptions, which are chiefly frigates, sloops, gun-vessels, and bomb-ketches. It is expected that very few days will be suffered to elapse before the commencement of offensive operations against some principle points of the French coast. The prohibition of landing passengers at Dover is continued with the strictest care, and there are at this moment a great number of persons waiting at Calais to come to this country.

Private accounts received from Cherbourg by the way of Calais, state the arrival of 11,000 troops at the former place. It is asserted upon the same authority, that no less than 6000 of them had been lately conveyed to Calais in flat-bottomed boats armed each with two pounders.

Lord Nelson shifted his flag yesterday from the Leyden to the Medusa frigate. Among the vessels ready for immediate service are, the Leyden of 68 guns, the Ruyter of 64 guns, and the Isis of 50 guns, with the Hind, Medusa and Brilliant frigates; the Hecla, Volcano, Zebra, Sulphur, and Discovery bombs, and about twenty sail of gun vessels and revenue cutters.

BATTLE OF ALGESIRAS.

Captain Ferris, late of his majesty's ship the Hannibal, captured by the French squadron in the Bay of Algeiras, arrived this morning at the admiralty, with official accounts of the loss of that ship, and the particulars of the action between Sir James Saumarez and Admiral Lincolns and the Spanish batteries.

We were fully convinced that the report of the engagement, as it appeared in the Moniteur, would be found to contain much exaggeration, and this opinion is confirmed by the accounts which Captain Ferris has brought. Although the Hannibal has been unfortunately lost, our naval glory has not suffered the slightest diminution.

It appears that Sir James Saumarez, with the Cæsar, Le Pompee, the Venerable, Audacious, the Hannibal, and the Spencer, attacked the enemy's squadron about 8 o'clock in the morning of the 5th of last month. The Hannibal, while in the gallant act of attempting to break the French line, was driven aground by the impetuosity of the current under the Spanish batteries, and was particularly exposed to a dreadful fire from artillery of a very heavy calibre placed upon a rock, by which she was in every point of direction commanded. In this perilous situation the action was maintained with uncommon intrepidity, by capt. Ferris and his crew, for nearly four hours, when, having lost 143 men in killed and wounded, seeing no prospect of extricating herself, and in danger of going every instant to the bottom, the Hannibal was at length compelled to strike her colours.

The Spencer was, in consequence of the rapidity of the current, prevented from taking part in the action, which was sustained by the Cæsar, the Venerable, the Audacious, and Le Pompee. The Cæsar had 42 men killed and wounded, the Venerable and Audacious between 30 and 40 each, and Le Pompee 83. The whole of our loss is, we deeply regret to state, little short of 350 men in killed and wounded. The Venerable led our squadron into action, and such was the vigor of the attack, and the force of our fire, that the whole of the French squadron were driven ashore, and all their ships rendered unserviceable. The enemy succeeded in getting off the Hannibal; but that vessel sustained so much damage as to be rendered completely useless. No officer of distinction was killed except lieutenant Turner, of the marines, belonging to the Hannibal. The Pompee suffered so very severely by the fire of the batteries, that it was found necessary to employ the boats of the other vessels to tow her into Gibraltar Bay.

Sir J. Saumarez was using every exertion to refit his squadron with the utmost dispatch.

Such is the substance of the accounts communicated by capt. Ferris of the action of Algeiras, which according to the official papers of the French government, covered the republican navy with glory, but in which it is now ascertained that the rapidity of the current, and the Spanish batteries, performed the most conspicuous parts.

CORN EXCHANGE, Friday July 31.

The Wheat Market was very dull, hardly any thing done. Prices at last market-day. Oats brisk, and is dearer. Other articles in the same as last market day.

PLYMOUTH, July 30.

On overhauling the papers of La Chevrete, a circular request of the Intendant of the French Marine was found on board, directed to the captain, that in future, when engaged with a British man of war, the French crew should not, as heretofore aim at the rigging, but level their guns at the hull; and quoting, as the reason, the remarkable carnage on board the L'Africaine in her action with the Phebe, while the latter sustained a very considerable loss. Captain Sir R. Barlow, late of the Phebe, read the above paper on board La Chevrete.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 26.

The latest accounts which we received here from Egypt came down to the 2d of June, and mention that the army of the Grand Vizier had formed a junction near Cairo with the corps under the Captain Pacha. The grand Vizier had waited for the junction to undertake an attack upon Cairo, where there is still a French corps, which principally endeavours to defend the forts there.

We have not as yet received any account that the English troops from the East Indies, which have landed at Suez, have joined the Grand Vizier.

In the action which took place on the 18th of May, between the French and the Grand Vizier, a corps of Turks of 5000 men bravely maintained their ground against an almost equal number of French, who endeavoured to attack the rear of the Grand Vizier, till they received a reinforcement of 4000 men, which compelled the enemy to retreat.

The disagreement which prevails among the French Generals has been of great advantage to the Turks and English.

The situation of Alexandria is said to be more than critical; it is greatly in want of water. Dispatches from the commandant of Alexandria to the first consul Buonaparte, found on board a ship taken by the English, fully confirm the distressed condition of Alexandria.

It is said that Sir Sidney Smith is returning to England on board the Tigre. His secretary has lost his life in the Nile.

NEW-YORK, September 15.

We have received, by the brig Fuare, Dublin papers to the 5th of August; but we find only a few paragraphs in them worthy of notice. It is said there is a paper in town, containing an official account of the late battles off Algeiras. We have not been so fortunate as to obtain it. This account, if it has been received at all, shall appear in the Gazette to-morrow.

Extracts from Dublin papers to the 5th ult. DUBLIN, August 4.

Yesterday after an astonishing passage of five days from Oporto, laden with wine, arrived here the American brig the Enterprise, J. Wilcocks, master. When this vessel sailed peace with Spain and France had been proclaimed, but no terms mentioned, except that during the war all the ports of Portugal are to be shut against British vessels. On her passage she was brought too twice by French privateers off Corunna.

As the track of the above-mentioned vessel is exactly the same for more than half the voyage from Gibraltar, we may certainly expect in a day or two at the farthest, admiral Saumarez's account of the late action off Algeiras.

It was yesterday reported, we could not satisfactorily trace upon what authority, that the combined fleet of French and Spanish ships in Cadiz, had entered the Mediterranean the 12th of last month. Another report of a fact equally problematical is in circulation, that the British fleet had put to sea in the night of Thursday last, 33 strong of the line.

Gen. Clarke and his suite are to embark for England on board a king's cutter.

The fleet at Cove have received orders to sail the first fair wind. We hear they are to join the ships off Brest.

Before the revolution there were in Paris 34 printers; their present number amounts to 385.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

Married yesterday, at Chestnut Hill, the seat of Mrs. Brown, by the rev. Mr. Davis, WILLIAM MURRAY MAYNARD, Esq. of Baltimore, to the amiable and accomplished Miss Brown.

Last evening, by the rev. Mr. Mair, Mr. ROBERT STEWART, to Miss ELIZA WARD, both of this place.

By the Two Friends, capt. Vose, arrived at New-York, London papers to the 1st of August, have been received, they contain little of consequence. In the preceding columns our readers will find the whole of what the New-York editor says is worth selecting.

We shall to-morrow lay before our readers an interesting Law for the regulation of the British West-India Prize Courts, transmitted by Mr. King our minister at London.

The Boston frigate, capt. M'Neil, has arrived at New-York for the purpose of taking Chancellor Livingston and suite to France, after which she will join the squadron in the Mediterranean.

Capt. Johnson, who arrived at N. York in the brig Fox, on Monday last, informs that he left St. Maloes on the 8th August, at which time, above 100 gunboats, two cutter brigs, and two 44 gun frigates, completely manned and victualled, were waiting at St. Maloes to be employed on the projected expedition. It was reported there, that admiral Gantheaume had captured one English 74 and a fleet of about 20 merchant vessels with stores destined for the British army in Egypt; and that he had succeeded in landing troops at a short distance from Alexandria. The officers and crew of the Jafon, captain Johnson says, were preserved when that frigate was wrecked near St. Maloes: the pilot perished.

The governor of South Carolina has credited citizen Simon Jude Chancogale, as commercial agent of the French commissary general's department in that state.

NEGROES and LANDS FOR SALE.

I wish to sell a number of very valuable Negroes, among whom are a good waggoner, shoemaker, house-maid, &c. None more capable servants are to be met with! I will give a short credit upon them, assured of punctual payment.

I have about 600 acres of land lying along the Ohio, about 8 or 9 miles below Limestone: 200 between the town of Washington and May's Lick, in Mason county, and several tracts in the interior counties in Kentucky, for sale, or to exchange for property in this or the state of Maryland.

The first of those is nearly all bottom; the second lies well for cultivation, is in an excellent neighborhood, well timbered, with good never failing water, and both have a delightful range for stock, particularly hogs. The titles are indisputable. A good bargain may be had of those and other lands in that state! I have also for sale, a share in the Potomac Company, and a small annuity in the town of Alexandria. A good waggon and team, and good brood mare, with a colt, and in foal.

Apply to me near Centerville.
